China Says Japan Ties Need ‘Normalization’ Again Over Taiwan Row

On the 54th anniversary of Japan-China diplomatic normalization, Beijing's diplomatic apparatus told Japan that bilateral ties require 'normalization' and demanded Tokyo 'correct' PM Takaichi's stance on Taiwan — a coordinated multi-channel message delivered through China MOFA, Global Times, CGTN, and Anadolu. The pressure campaign followed Takaichi's UNGA call to remove UN Charter 'enemy state' clauses and a separate Beijing demand that Japan honor NPT obligations and abandon what China characterizes as nuclear ambitions.

China courts Japan ex-foreign minister in pressure play against Takaichi

Beijing engineered a high-profile meeting between former Japanese Foreign Minister Takeshi Iwaya and Chinese Vice Premier He — framed by Nikkei Asia as a deliberate attempt to cultivate an alternative interlocutor and apply factional pressure on the Takaichi cabinet. The move follows the 54th anniversary of normalization and Beijing's sustained public demand that Tokyo 'correct' its posture on Taiwan.

PwC refuses to sign off Nidec accounts despite $6.3bn charge

PricewaterhouseCoopers declined to express an opinion on Nidec's accounts even after the Japanese motor maker took a $6.3 billion charge — a disclaimer described by the FT as a further blow to Nidec's efforts to draw a line under an accounting fraud investigation. Nidec separately reported a record ¥500+ billion net loss on EV motor write-downs and replaced chief executive Kishida with its technology head.

Japan's output falls for second month due to impact from quake and Iran war

Japan's industrial output fell 1.7 percent in August — a second successive monthly decline — as manufacturers absorbed the impact of a major earthquake that struck Kyushu and disruption linked to the Iran war, per Japan Times citing official data. The consecutive declines pose a headwind for the BOJ's rate-normalization path as the October MPM approaches.

REGIONAL PRESSURE WATCH

Normal — 13 items

CHINA

On the 54th anniversary of Japan-China diplomatic normalization, Beijing delivered a coordinated multi-channel demand across China MOFA, Global Times, CGTN, and Anadolu Agency, ordering Tokyo to 'correct erroneous words and deeds' on Taiwan, honor NPT obligations and abandon what China frames as nuclear ambitions, and return to 'joint political commitments.' Simultaneously, Nikkei Asia reported China engineered a Beijing meeting between former FM Iwaya and Vice Premier He as a pressure play targeting factional alternatives to the Takaichi cabinet.

NORTH KOREA

North Korea issued a statement via TASS-carried reporting warning that Japan's rearmament expansion is 'casting war clouds,' framing Tokyo's defense buildup as preparation for 'protracted war' — continuing Pyongyang's declaratory campaign against Japan's Three Strategic Documents implementation.

Senkaku / ECS: No new Senkaku or East China Sea patrol-day or intrusion data reported in today's articles; the September 27 Chinese marine research vessel EEZ survey pattern remains the most recent confirmed incident per tracker.

• EXPERT ANALYSIS AND EVENTS

Trump–Xi Summit 2.0, China's Japan Narrative, Xi's Purge Campaign, and China's Economic Weakness

China is deploying a coordinated narrative offensive against Japan — leveraging the Trump–Xi summit outcome and Xi's domestic consolidation — to squeeze Tokyo's strategic space.

Hudson Institute's analysis places China's sustained pressure campaign against Japan in the context of the Trump–Xi Washington summit, arguing that Beijing is exploiting the bilateral US–China détente to intensify pressure on Tokyo while questioning the reliability of US extended deterrence commitments. The piece also addresses Xi Jinping's ongoing internal purge as a factor shaping Beijing's external assertiveness, and flags Chinese economic weakness as a parallel dynamic that may intensify rather than moderate coercive signaling. The analysis connects directly to today's coordinated multi-channel Chinese demands on Japan regarding Taiwan and nuclear posture.

SO WHAT Analysts assessing Japan's vulnerability to US–China rapprochement should weigh whether Beijing's anniversary-day pressure campaign reflects a strategic calculation that the Trump–Xi relationship has narrowed Japan's diplomatic room for maneuver.

NATO's Evolving Space Security - Implications for Japan's Space Strategy

NATO's expanding space security architecture offers Japan both a template and partnership opportunities for building out its own space strategy under the Three Strategic Documents framework.

The Sasakawa Peace Foundation paper examines how NATO's evolving approach to space as an operational domain — including collective defense in space and new space-focused structures — carries implications for Japan's national space strategy. The analysis argues that Japan can leverage NATO–Japan security linkages, formalized in recent years, to plug capability gaps and align doctrinal frameworks. It situates the analysis within Japan's 2022 National Security Strategy commitment to expand space-based defense capabilities.

SO WHAT Defense planners working on Japan's space security architecture should assess how NATO's collective defense frameworks for space could be operationalized through existing Japan–NATO partnership mechanisms before the Three Strategic Documents review concludes.
